

STORYWALK®: WANGARI'S TREES OF PEACE

*"The Earth was naked.
For me, the mission was to try to cover it with green"
-Wangari Maathai*

Stop by The Wareham Land Trust's Agawam River Trail (located at 20 Knowles Ave) to follow along with the children's book "Wangari's Trees of Peace"

This book is based on the true story of Wangari Maathai, the Nobel Peace Prize winner who started the Green Belt Movement- an environmental movement focused on empowering women that led to the planting of 39 million trees across Kenya. This book will be up through the month of June.

The StoryWalk® Project was created by Anne Ferguson of Montpelier, VT and developed in collaboration with the Vermont Bicycle & Pedestrian Coalition and the Kellogg Hubbard Library. This StoryWalk® was funded by the Wareham Cultural Council.
